Editorial Review

Review

Better than any book I've come across, Bernardo Kastrup's collection of essays confronts two mysteries that must be urgently solved. The first is the mystery of reality. The second is the mystery of knowledge. To confront both mysteries at once requires courage, tenacity, a willingness to swim upstream, and thick skin. But if you have a persistent, acute mind like Bernardo's, an exciting journey opens up.
-- Deepak Chopra, M.D., pioneer in the field of mind-body medicine.
Some words, such as the collection of essays in Brief Peeks Beyond, have the power to evoke in the reader not just the concept of infinite Consciousness but the experience of it, a taste of its own essential reality. I have been touched by the profundity of these essays and know that they will imprint their healing intelligence in the broader medium of mind, from which humanity draws its knowledge and experience, for many years to come.
-- Rupert Spira, non-duality teacher and author.
Pioneering, original and brilliantly written. This important book is an excellent contribution to the growing awareness that the domination of materialism in science is irrefutably coming to an end, perhaps even in the next decade. Highly recommended.
-- Pim van Lommel, cardiologist, author of Consciousness Beyond Life.
Occam's Razor never cut so deep as in this penetrating critique of science, philosophy and the cultural cocoon we've constructed. Kastrup has followed up on his previous assault on dopey scientific materialism with a knockout punch.
-- Alex Tsakiris, author of Why Science is Wrong... About Almost Everything and host of the Skeptiko podcast.
